

Being nice to my mate is nice

I was chatting few days ago among English class. So I got this homework. This essay. Half of class got this homework because we were very loudly talking between us when some schoolfellow has been oral checked.

I know that I must not speak so loud, I really did not speak very loud but other people speak much louder than me. But I was not chatting because we were making some exercises which was given to us by our teacher. At this moment when a teacher saw us, I was asking some schoolfellow about some result of some exercise. Other schoolfellow was really rattling because they had been already made all exercises. They were really too loud and if they did not speak so loud we probably did not get this homework. Some of us, who got homework, did not speak at all. That was really unfair because the homework must go only to those who were speaking so loud and disturbing oral checking.

But I think that we really deserved this homework because we must not speak so loud and disturb the teacher. If we did not get homework, we will do this again and again. So, now we know what we will get, if we chat or speak too loud.
