

SPACE TOURISM IS A WASTE OF TIME AND MONEY

Recently, travelling into space was known only to astronauts and ordinary people did not know anything about space flights. However, nowadays it has completely changed. It is possible to fly into space and watch the Earth from thousands of kilometres away.

CON (no):

- First of all, travelling into space is an exciting adventure, which cannot be compared to anything else. Space tourists could feel free, independent and it could be an adventure of their life too.
- Moreover, space travels let travellers gain unusual experience and knowledge, which they cannot get from any book or film watched on TV. They could also develop their interests and imagination.

PRO(yes):

- On the other hand, space travels can be very dangerous because of unknown conditions for human living and space shuttles aren't safe. What is more, people are not able to predict how their body will react in different environment conditions.
- Furthermore, the price of space travels is very high. That kind of travelling is very expensive and available only for people that can afford it. Why bother spending all this money exploring space when these same great minds could make life down here better. The needs of humanity should always come first.

There are obvious advantages that space tourism has, however, there are also possible disadvantages that should be reconsidered. Space flights could be an exciting, unusual experience and even an adventure of our life. They can also give us precious knowledge and will certainly become a great tourist attraction. However, they are also very expensive, dangerous and only some of us could afford them.
