

TRAVELLING BY TRAIN

Since 1825, when Stephenson built the first locomotive, the train traffic has been widened all over the world. Because of its safety and speed is the train one of the most wanted sources of traveling on long distances.

Traveling by train has certain advantages. Firstly, it was already mentioned, it is safe and fast. Secondly, this way of travelling is comfortable and not stressful. During the drive, you can relax by reading books and looking out of the window. Furthermore, you can eat and drink on the train and if you want, you can do your work during the traveling.

However, traveling by train has also some disadvantages. The main problem is that it is expensive, specially if you travel with well-known train companies. Also, it can be noisy and sometimes unserviceable because you must travel on certain times and arrivals of the trains are often delayed. In addition, a big problem is, specially nowadays, terrorism - suicide bombers, robbers, kidnappers ...

To sum up, train traffic is one of the most safe way of traveling. So, if you go to a trip, think about how to travel. You may choose the train.
