

PARAMORE

Today, I will tell you something about a music group, called Paramore.

They come from Franklin, a city in the USA and have played together since 2004. FueledByRamen is a successful music label and Paramore got lucky to be guided by them. This label is also guiding bands like A Rocket To The Moon, VersaEmerge, Panic! At The Disco, but at the moment they are not so known by general population. Paramore play a kind of music called alternative rock, other alternative bands are also VersaEmerge and maybe better known by you Evanescence. Paramore has won 17 awards by now, but I think there will come some more.

Members of this band are Hayley, Jeremy, Josh, Zac and Taylor.

Hayley is the lead singer and she also play the keyboard in some of the songs, for example Fances.

Josh sings the back vocals and plays the lead guitar.

Zac plays the drums, and Taylor and Jeremy play rhythm and bass guitar.

Paramore also cooperates with some other bands, for example No Doubt, Amber Pacific, The Lashes, The Providence, Bayside, Tegan and Sara, and Hayley was also singing in B.O.B.s song Airplanes. You could hear their songs in different video games, films and series.

Their first album is called All we know is falling, it was released in 2005, you can find ten songs on it, and watch three videos.

The shadow on the cover shows a member who resigned from the band.

Their second album RIOT!, enjoyed greater glory and brought Paramore on a higher level. They recorded 11 songs and released four singles.

In 2009, they released an album called Brand new eyes. Every single becomes increasingly popular. Their videos are getting better and more creative every time.

Every song has its own real-life story. Their songs talk about jealousy, injustice, love, injust judging, hope, beliefs, feelings, joy,... And I should also mention, that just some songs have a religious content, even if it appears in the following two.

*This is just a coincidence.*

The single Playing god is the last single in year 2010 and you can also watch its video.

This song is about someone who always judges people and acts like he/she is the "god". When Hayley is saying "next time you point your finger, I'll point you to the mirror", means that they/she/he should stop judging them/her/him/us and look at themselves/himself/herself.

Let the flames begin isn't a single, and it's about feeling really miserable and in despair and you just want to give up. At the same time something tells you to hold on, have faith, and keep searching for something to hang on to. One day you will find that special thing and you will be able to keep your head up and keep being strong no matter how bad things get.

Paramore.net is the official Paramore site and community. If you are a Paramore fan this site is the best way to get every information about the band, chat with other fans and friends, listen to music and watch videos . Paramore also has its official online store, where you can buy everything from clothes, posters, school supplies to music cd-s.

Their biggest fans are crazy, if I use a nice word. They cover their skin with tattoos and make crazy stuff, just to be noticed by the band. So once one guy pleased Josh to call him on the stage, and than he engaged his girlfriend.

And now, just some interesting facts about the band; Hayley is rapidly changing hairstyles, they always wrap microphones in insulating tape and they let their fans sing or play with them on stage.

More about Paramore, you can find on Paramore.net, paramoreslo.mojforum.si, wikipedia.org, youtube.com, facebook.com, twitter.com and myspace.com.

And for conclusion, I would like to know your opinion about them, now when you learnd something new about them.
