Google Chrome

It is an exciting news that Google announced their browser Google Chrome to be available on Tuesday. Google has joined the family of browsers finally. Although the download of Google Chrome did not officially start yet, their download page and tour was briefly live at gears.google.com/chrome/ just now. Unfortunately, it did not work when I tried. However, it doesn't matter and we can enjoy some screenshots and comic book explaining Google Chrome.

This is just the beginning - Google Chrome is far from done. Google released this beta for Windows to start the broader discussion and hear from users as quickly as possible. The developers of Google Chrome are hard working at building versions for Mac and Linux too, and will continue to make it even faster and more robust.

So far, Google has not disclosed the details of Google Chrome. The following is the comic
